10th Anniversary Celebrations for the ISCEST Family!

Congratulations are definitely in order! The 10th Anniversary of the annual international ISCEST conference is indeed a praiseworthy milestone that deserves to be celebrated. ISCEST stepped onto the international and comparative education roadway in 2014 when it convened its first conference from 07—11 December. The conference theme at that time was Education, Science and Technology for Life-long Learning. Over the years, these three broad concepts have remained the cornerstones of all of ISCEST's activities. In subsequent years, each 'Call for Papers' strongly encouraged participants to present papers that are based on these very themes. And participants always delivered the goods, especially in the areas of science and technology! A browse through the contents of CSCEST confirms this. Even during the height of the Covid-19 pandemic, ISCEST never faulted on delivering its conferences. In fact, the 2020 and 2021 themes made direct reference to the pandemic (Table I, p.10). May ISCEST continue to grow from strength to strength!

Professor Steve Azaiki -
Founding President

Highlights from the Keynote Speakers' Presentations

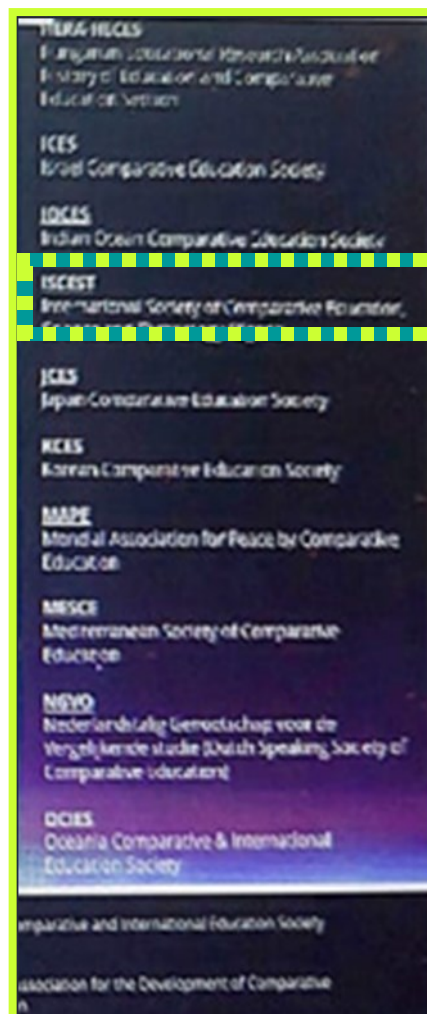

Dr Elizabeth Eta delivered a keynote presentation where she revisited the dynamics of the nation-state in our increasingly interconnected world. She explored the concept of space, which continually transcends boundaries while being shaped by global trends, national contexts, and local communities. She also delved into the adaptation/ translation of global policies in local contexts, highlighting how the process of nationalizing International and Comparative Education bridges global and international trends with local goals.

An excerpt from Rethinking the National in Comparative Education

David A. Turner and Xiaomin Li

Institute of International and Comparative Education, Beijing Normal University

This sense of voluntarism is very attractive. This conference started with the singing of the national anthem of Nigeria, the sentiments of which echo this voluntarism very strongly:

Nigeria, we hail thee,
Our own dear native land,
Though tribe and tongue may differ,
In brotherhood we stand
Nigerians all, and proud to
Serve our sovereign Motherland.
Our flag shall be a symbol
That truth and justice reign...

Professor David Turner

This very much captures Renan's sense of a choice, a taking to one's heart the idea of nationhood, and, despite diversity or because of it, a willingness to serve, or to make some sacrifice. It also makes quite explicit the adoption of the flag as a national symbol. Similar sentiments might be captured in different words, but it was rather moving how closely the programme of this conference reflected the themes developed here, because it started with the national anthem of Nigeria.

Clips 5 and 6 of Professor Turner's PowerPoint presentation address the issue of imagined communities and what it means for a group of people to constitute a nation, starting with the question of why the idea of a nation is still important in this age of fluid borders, common culture, and world citizenship.

Imagined Communities

Benedict Anderson points to...

- The rise of 'print capitalism'
- Reading the same novels and the same newspapers,
- We can imagine the distributed community of people like us,
- Who read the same things.

And for the Future?

- The decline of print capitalism?
- The increasing heterogeneity of nations?
- Social media echo chambers?
- But the new imagined communities are self-selected,
- And remain important for asserting rights.

Professor Samuel John began his keynote presentation with these thought-provoking quotes:

“Whoever leads in AI will rule the world”: Putin to Russian children on Knowledge Day” ... 1st September, 2017

“Putin predicted that whichever country leads the way in AI research will come to dominate global affairs”.

“Artificial intelligence is the future, not only for Russia, but for all humankind”.

1st Pan-Ijaw Economic Summit Convened

By Providence Ayanfeoluwa

L to R: Barrister Inuruo Wills, Lead Consultant, Govenant Consulting & Former Commissioner for Environment, Bayelsa State; Prof Benjamin Okaba, President, Ijaw National Congress (INC) Worldwide & Co-Convener; H. E. Rear Adm. G. John Jonah (Rtd), Former Deputy Governor, Bayelsa State; Prof. Steve S. Azaiki, OON, President, Azaiki Foundation & Principal Convener; Ms Ann-Kio Briggs, Environmentalist & Human Rights Activist; Mr. Emeka Ugwu-Oju, Chairman, BOT, SESSPN; Ms Hilda Dokubo, Actress, Author, Politician; Mr. Felix Achibiri, Chairman/CEO, Dfc Holdings Ltd; Navy Capt. Caleb Olubolade (Rtd), Former Military Administrator, Bayelsa State & Former Minister of Police Affairs.

The organizers of the Pre-Summit Conference of the 1st Pan-Ijaw Economic Summit which took place from October 17-18, 2024, in Bayelsa State Government House, Yenagoa has recounted successes achieved. The event which was organized by the Azaiki Foundation in partnership with the Ijaw National Congress, INC, brought key stakeholders, leaders, and experts together to discuss the economic development and sustainability of the Ijaw region. According to a statement made available to Vanguard, President of the Azaiki Foundation,

Prof. Steve Azaiki, said that the summit was a significant step towards ensuring the Ijaw people benefit from the rich resources of their land. Azaiki said: "We are committed to fostering an environment that promotes economic resilience and sustainable practices in the Ijaw region". However, the pre-summit conference themed: "Environmental Regeneration and Economic Sustainability", addressed critical topics and featured six thematic areas, including marine economy opportunities, environmental regeneration, prevention of oil theft, and human capital development; as well as infrastructural security in the Niger Delta. The event emphasized that environmental regeneration and economic sustainability in the Ijaw region should not rely solely on government efforts but require proactive involvement from the Ijaw people themselves.

Keynote speakers included H.E. Sir Siminilayi Fubara, Governor of Rivers State, represented by Chief Dr. Tammy Wenike Danagogo, and Ambassador Godknows Igali, representing former President Dr. Goodluck Ebele Jonathan, who served as the Chief Special Guest of Honor. The South East-South South Professionals of Nigeria (SESSPN), represented by Mr. Emeka Ugwu-Oju, presented a goodwill message, highlighting the importance of the Development Agenda South East-South South 2035 (DASESS 2035) for discussion at the main summit.

ISCEST Says Thanks!

On behalf of the entire ISCEST Family, including Founding President Professor Steve Azaiki OON, I would like to extend heartiest thanks to all those who helped, in any way possible, to make the 10th Anniversary ISCEST Conference a grand success. I express special thanks to the participants who presented papers various aspects of science, and the range of different topics that covers the broad area of science. It was heartening to see that many participant presented papers that show ISCEST to be an international and comparative education society. I hope that all the papers will be developed into material that can be published in local, regional and international journals. I encourage all those in the field of science , education and technology to participate in the 2025 ISCEST conference. I look forward to welcoming all of you to the next annual international ISCEST conference.

Professor Nedie Akani

Congratulations and Thanks!

December 2024 marks ISCEST 10th Anniversary

It's a grand occasion and a great ISCEST story

To all who continue to uphold the ISCEST legacy

ISCEST says, "Congratulations and thanks"

To the many supporters who stayed with us

Expressing our gratitude to you, this is a must

In you and your deeds of kindness we do trust

So ISCEST says, "Congratulations and thanks"

Gertrude Shotte

Congratulations !!!

Thank you
